What a week last week was! After four years, we were expecting a visit from Ofsted, and the call came in almost to the day! After many, many discussions & observations, the inspectors will write their report, and we will be able to share this and their gradings with you within six weeks.

Oh my goodness, we have a dream team at Roydon! Thanks to everyone who worked so hard before & during the inspection to show Roydon at its best – staff, children, governors, parents, & even ex-staff who helped out until late into Tuesday evening!

Please remember that PE kit must be plain & unbranded - recently we have seen lots of logos and illustrations. Children coming to school in these clothes after half term will be asked to change into the spare PE kit we have in school. Please encourage your child to follow the rules – it's a life skill!

In recognition of World Book Day, children are invited to come to school in their pyjamas, dressing gown & slippers on Wednesday 6th, and bring their favourite bedtime story. Staff will be taking part in this celebration of reading, too!

The 100% attendance prize draw winner last week was ...
Aria in Woodpeckers and this week is ...
Alfie in Dragonflies!
Enjoy spending your £10 Amazon vouchers!

Please note that Rabbits, Dragonflies, Otters, Owls and Kingfishers all need to come to school in their school uniform on Friday 8th March for class photos. They will all need to bring PE kit to change into after their photo has been taken.

Do you remember when the author James Campbell came to visit & told the children some of his stories? We are really looking forward to his live online workshops that he will be running on World Book Day, hoping he will inspire all our budding authors!

We will be drawing the first of our Reading Royal Family after half term. Next week is the children's last chance to get an entry into the draw – one ticket for reading five times in this coming week, two tickets for reading seven times. You've got to be in it to win it!

Apologies that we had to postpone our assemblies this week. Squidgers will now share their work with you on Wednesday 13th March, and Year 3/4 on Friday 15th March, both starting at 9am.
